We have organized a women’s retreat and developed programs specifically designed to address the challenges faced by women with blood disorders. Our aim is to create a supportive and empowering environment where women can come together, share their experiences, and find solace in knowing they are not alone. We provide a safe space for women to share their stories, express their concerns, and seek guidance from healthcare professionals and fellow participants. Through these conversations, we aim to raise awareness, reduce stigma, and improve understanding surrounding women’s health issues, particularly those related to blood disorders and menstruation.

Recognizing the financial burdens that often accompany blood disorders, we have established a financial assistance program. This program provides women with resources to help alleviate the costs associated with managing their blood disorder, including expenses related to their period problems. We understand the importance of financial support in accessing necessary medical care, treatments, and other essential resources.

Patients Assistance Program: What We Do: In English: Asociación Puertorriqueña de Hemofilia y Condiciones de Sangrado (hemofiliapr.org)

Our center has launched a Women’s Thrombosis and Hemostasis Clinic. There are two sites (one for adolescents; one for adults) and there is increasing education being done to educate patients about these conditions.

CENTERS FOR DISEASE CONTROL & PREVENTION

- The CDC offers cooperative agreements that have a focus on both diagnosis and clinical management for women and girls with bleeding disorders. The CDC partners with both NBDF and HFA on their cooperative agreement initiatives. CDC has worked with NBDF as their partner in their development of consumer education to increase knowledge about the signs and symptoms of bleeding disorders among the general public of women and girls through the Better You Know campaign; as well as their efforts to increase the number of women with symptoms to seek care through the Journey to Know campaign.
- CDC aims to increase awareness and provide credible health information related to women and girls through the CDC websites and communications.
